Dear Mike,

Greetings! We are excited to send you the new EPG Companies Inc. Connection.

We hope you'll find these emails useful and informative, whether you're in the field dealing with day-to-day operations or designing the next expansion for your site.

Look for Operation & Maintenance tips, product highlights, site and industry news, service school and conference event schedules, and many other topics that affect you and your business.

We welcome any comments, thoughts or ideas about how to make this email as worthwhile to you as we possibly can.

Sincerely,

EPG Companies Inc.

Product Highlight - Breakout Junction Boxes

Control failure and expensive repairs, caused by landfill gasses and moisture are real and potentially dangerous possibilities. To simplify maintenance and repair and increase the safety and accuracy of your system, simply install an EPG Breakout Junction Box between your pump and control panel.

EPG Breakout Junction Box

They provide a simple and convenient way to disconnect power or sensor wires during maintenance and/or repair work and create a gas-tight seal between your riser, well or sump and your control panel. Models for gas affected systems available.

FYI - UL Listed Control Panels

A UL listed control panel will meet the most stringent safety standards, be inspected against those standards and tell you what the SCCR is so you know what the potential hazard level is when working on the control panel.

To find out if your control panel supplier is UL Listed, ask for their E # or visit the UL Online Certification Directory to find out.
